DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 4 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is not clear how the "idle current" changes. Note, applicant's specification, page 4, lines 1-5 indicated that "A power source of the bias circuit is connected to a power source of the semiconductor amplification element via a semiconductor element (diode) such that idle current of the semiconductor amplification element can be changed in response to change of a supply voltage of the semiconductor amplification element." As such, the amended subject matters do show the relationship between the diode connected between the power sources and the idle current.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yamamoto (5,229,731).

Yamamoto (Figs. 1 and 4) discloses an amplifying circuit comprising: a transistor (31) can be read as a semiconductor amplification element having a voltage supply (Vcc) which can be read as a first power source; and a diode (33) and transmission line (32) connected to the base of transistor (31) can be read as a bias circuit connected to ground (GND) which can be read as a second power source, wherein the first and second power source are connected via diode (33) such that inherent idle current of the transistor (30) changes corresponding to a change of the voltage supplied by the first power source (Vcc) to the transistor (31).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 4 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claim 4 calls for, among others, a temperature compensation circuit for temperature compensating of the bias generating circuit.
